Birmingham Back to Backs National Trust property about 10 mins walk from the Mailbox and in the entertainment area with cinemas, restaurants and pubs close by. You'll get an idea of how Brummies lived from the Industrial Revolution through to the 1960s. The latter illustrated by a tailor's shop where you feel he might walk in and pick up a needle at any moment.

Birmingham The Worcs & B'ham Canal actually starts a little south of the junction at Gas Street Basin. You'll find visitor moorings near the junction (convenient for Brindley Place), across the way by the NIA, in Gas Street and also by the Mailbox - an up-market eating and shopping venue that includes Harvey Nicholls. All these places provide easy access to Birmingham's attractions, in particular the Sea Life Centre, Symphony Hall, Birmingham Rep and Town Hall. There are plenty of pubs, bars and restaurants around here largely selling lagers and keg beers, so - The Prince of Wales in Edward St stands out like an oasis with eight real ales on offer. Nearby, overlooking Cambrian Wharf is the Flapper & Firkin (live music) and a useful convenience store. Further afield there are plenty more shops, restaurants etc around Broad St, New St and Corporation St including a Tesco Metro in New St. The Bull Ring Shopping Centre, built in the 60s, was demolished a few years ago and replaced by a new centre that includes Selfridges. Doubtless, consultants were paid a vast sum of money to come up with a name for this bright, modern "shopping experience". The result? The highly original "Bulling". Next to the Hippodrome Theatre, the National Trust Back to Backs offer a glimpse of Birmingham's past. Information in the iconic Rotunda building in New St. TOA Taxis Tel: 0121 427 8888

Selly Oak. Not the ideal place for an overnight stop but bridge 80 is handy for Sainsbury's and a retail park 10 mins southwest. In the other direction you're in Birmingham Uni student territory so plenty of takeaways, pubs, reasonably priced restaurants and an Aldi. Buses and trains to Birmingham City centre, trains to Redditch.

Bournville & Cadbury World. Visitor moorings here and "secure" moorings on the non-towpath side - you'll need a BW key to get out and down to Stirchley for shops, banks and plenty of restaurants.

Kings Norton Junction - Stratford-on-Avon Canal

Kings Norton 5 mins west from bridge 71 for The Navigation and a little further for a small shopping centre with bank, convenience store and another pub all grouped round a village green. Next to the church is the grammar school, dating from 14thC, that won the BBC's "Restoration" programme a few years ago. Doctor Broadmeadow Health Centre Tel: 0121 458-1340 Dentist 30 The Green Tel: 0121 458 1362 Vet 87 Watford Rd Tel: 0121 459 4333; If you're really desperate, you can climb the hill eastwards for a large Macdonalds and a chippy.

Tardebidge Tunnel

Tardebidge Top Lock

Well, if you've got here you're either about to tackle or have just completed the 30 locks that make up the Tardebidge flight - at least when people ask, you can say you've done it and, if you're working down the flight, you can reward yourself with a pint soon after.

Stoke Works A BW notice by the waterpoint details shops in Ryefields Rd (over bridge 42 to the main road and 10 mins north). When we visited, one shop was empty and gave no indication of its trade, and the adjacent convenience store looked rather run-down with several empty shelves - there is a P.O. in store.
